

The diagram consists of two line drawings. On the left, a person is standing upright, facing forward. On the right, a person is riding a bicycle, also facing forward. A vertical line with a downward-pointing arrow is positioned between the two figures, indicating a reference frame or a direction of observation.

